Environmental Police Officer Exam 2021: Complete Guide to Eligibility, Syllabus, Pattern, and Preparation Tips

The environmental police officer exam 2021has become a highly sought-after opportunity for law enforcement aspirants who want to combine their passion for public safety with environmental protection. The exam, conducted by state police departments and specialized environmental agencies, tests candidates on a blend of general knowledge, aptitude, and subject specific knowledge related to environmental laws and conservation practices. In this guide, we walk you through every aspect of the 2021 exam—from eligibility and application steps to the syllabus, exam pattern, and the most effective study strategies to help you score high.

Exam Overview

The environmental police officer exam 2021is designed to select officers who will enforce environmental regulations, investigate pollution cases, and conduct field inspections. Candidates who clear the exam are posted in various units such as the Forest Department, Pollution Control Board, and municipal waste management divisions. The exam usually follows a three stage structure: an online preliminary test, a written examination, and a final interview/physical test. While the exact format can vary by state, most boards adopt a similar framework to ensure consistency and fairness.

Eligibility Criteria

Basic Eligibility

To qualify for the 2021 exam, applicants must meet the following baseline requirements:

- Be a citizen of India.
- Hold a Bachelor’s degree from a recognized university (in any discipline).
- Be within the age limit specified by the recruiting authority (commonly 21–35 years). Some states offer a relaxed age limit for candidates with relevant experience.
- Have no criminal record and must be physically fit.

Additional Eligibility

States may impose extra qualifications, such as:

1. Prior experience in environmental law or forestry.
2. Completion of a police training course (e.g., Police Academy).
3. Specialized certifications in environmental science or conservation.

It is essential to review the official notification for each state as they may have unique requirements or waivers.

Application Process

Step 1: Register Online

Most state police recruitment portals allow you to create an account using your email and mobile number. After registration, you will receive a unique login ID and password. Keep these credentials safe, as you will need them for every subsequent step.

Step 2: Fill the Application Form

The online form typically requests:

- Personal details (name, date of birth, address).
- Educational qualifications and marksheets.
- Work experience and training certificates.
- Upload scanned copies of your degree, identity proof, and passport size photograph.

Step 3: Pay the Application Fee

Fees vary between states and can range from ₹500 to ₹2,000. Payment is usually accepted via net banking, UPI, or credit/debit card. After payment, you will receive a receipt that you should keep for future reference.

Step 4: Confirmation and Admit Card

Once your application is verified, you will receive an admit card for the preliminary test. The admit card contains exam details such as date, time, venue, and important instructions. Print a copy and bring it to the test center.

Exam Pattern and Syllabus

Exam Pattern

The environmental police officer exam 2021 typically comprises the following stages:

1. Preliminary Online Test – 100 multiple choice questions (MCQs) covering General Knowledge, Current Affairs, Environmental Science, and Reasoning. Each correct answer awards 4 marks, and each wrong answer incurs a penalty of 1 mark. The test duration is 60 minutes.
2. Written Examination – 200 MCQs divided into two papers: Paper I (General Aptitude) and Paper II (Environmental Science & Laws). Paper I carries 200 marks, while Paper II carries 200 marks. The total duration is 3 hours.
3. Interview & Physical Test – Shortlisted candidates undergo a personal interview to assess communication skills and a physical test (running, push ups, and a short obstacle course) to ensure fitness.
